

RIVI collection

design Mikko Halonen

The Rivi collection is designed alongside the Vino collection to bring a light and space efficient option to the design of modular sofas. The principle idea of Rivi are the different sized frames with respect to the seat and table modules. With two differently sized frames, there are numerous options to create different combinations.

Rivi is a pleasant choice for sitting and working alone, or in a large group. Due to its compact size, the Rivi collection is perfect for offices or contemporary learning environments.

The Rivi frame is available in oak or ash lacquered or stained. The upholstery can be modified according to the spatial design. The sofa can be equipped with an electric unit.

The seat height of Rivi is 45cm and overall height is 78cm.
